Join the global community at the heart of pharmacology

Our roots might be British, but today we are a truly international Society. We represent a friendly and collaborative global community, with over 4,000 members from over 60 countries. We are a charity with a mission to promote and advance the whole spectrum of pharmacology, leading the way in the research and application of pharmacology around the world.

We would love to welcome you to the community: find out about becoming a member today.

Membership

Membership for undergraduates is free and reduced membership rates are available for early career members and international members based in low income countries. We also offer complimentary membership for retired pharmacologists and existing members who are taking a career break.

Membership benefits include:

- Free access to the Society's journals
- Access to resources, including careers information and curriculum support
- A free monthly email newsletter to help keep you up to date with opportunities and events
- Opportunities to join committees and groups
- Opportunities to nominate and be nominated for prizes and awards that recognise excellence across all areas of pharmacology

Networking

Joining the Society means you can network with members from around the world.

And it is even easier, thanks to discounted attendance fees for our scientific meetings, including our flagship annual meeting - one of the key dates in the pharmacology calendar.

You will also have access to our online Community platform, which brings the pharmacology community together on a daily basis, to share and collaborate.

Representing the international community

The Society's International Advisory Group is a group of enthusiastic members based across the globe, who represent the voice of pharmacology internationally.

They advise the Society's Council and other committees on how best to support the global pharmacology community.
